THINGS TO SAY WHEN YOUR CHILD TALKS BACK

The key is not to take it personally but to approach it with patience and empathy.

Instead of:

"Stop talking like that, you're being rude!"

Try:

"I understand that you don't agree with me. But it's not okay to talk like that. "Can you please say what you want to say in a more respectful way?"

Instead of:

"Don't you dare use that tone with me!"

Try:

"Okay, we're both feeling a little frustrated right now. Let's both take some time to calm down and then we can try again in a few minutes."

Instead of:

"I would never ask someone that way!"

Try:

"It sounds like you need my help. I know there is another way you can ask for that. I would be happy to help you. How else could you ask?"

Instead of:

"I'm not listening when you are talking like that!"

Try:

"I want to hear what you think and I expect you to say it in a respectful way. "Can you please say it differently?"

Instead of:

"Go to your room and calm down!"

Try:

"I would like to continue our conversation when we're both calm. I will be in the kitchen so please come when you're ready."

Instead of:

"I don't have time for this attitude!"

Try:

"It's okay to be upset with what I just said. We still need to speak calmly in order to continue our conversation."

All behavior is communication.
